How This Planner Works

One page is all the instructions you need. Read it once, then just use the pages.

1 Check your battery first

Each morning, rate your energy honestly. High battery: use the full Daily Page (p.5). Low battery: use the Low-Battery Day page (p.6). Both count as a real day.

2 Empty your head before you plan

Dump everything into the Brain Dump (p.12) first. A thought written down stops circling in your head.

3 Pick only 3 — and circle the ONE

Choose at most 3 priorities, then circle the one thing that matters most. Everything else waits in the Parking Lot (p.17): not forgotten, just parked.

4 End the day on paper

Use the Day-End page (p.7): write what got done, pick tomorrow's one thing, take five minutes to close the day.

5 Missed days are fine

No dates, no catching up, no guilt. Turn to the next blank page and restart. This planner is built for stop-and-start.

Battery > Day page > Dump > 3 things > Done list

Your download includes both editions of this planner: English and Traditional Chinese.

This is a self-management tool, not medical advice, and it cannot replace professional help.

My Brain Profile

Fill this in once. It helps you plan days that fit your brain — not someone else's.

I focus best at this time of day:

I focus best when (music / quiet / people around / moving about):

I usually get stuck when:

What helps me start again:

My Bare Minimum

Decide this on a good day, so a bad day doesn't have to think. On your worst days, these three small things are enough.

My 3 bare-minimum things

1 _____

2 _____

3 _____

Bare-minimum self-care

- [ ] Drink a glass of water
- [ ] Eat something
- [ ] Step outside for daylight
- [ ] Rest for a while, no screen
- [ ] _____
- [ ] _____

Signs I'm heading for a low day:

_____

_____

On a low day, I will NOT demand of myself:

_____

Daily Page

Battery first. Then the ONE thing. Then at most two more.

Today (date): _____ My battery: ☐ ☐ ☐ ☐ ☐ low … high

Low battery? Switch to the Low-Battery Day page (p.6) — it counts.

Tomorrow, start with: _____ Today felt: ☐ Rough ☐ Okay ☐ Good

Low-Battery Day

A full day page is too much today. This page is enough: three boxes, some care, nothing else.

Today's 3 small things

- [ ] _____
- [ ] _____
- [ ] _____

Care checklist

- [ ] Drank some water
- [ ] Ate something
- [ ] Got a little daylight
- [ ] Lay down for a while
- [ ] _____
- [ ] _____

One kind sentence to myself:

_____

_____

Today still counts if I only: _____

Rest is a plan too. A low-battery day handled gently is a day handled well.

Day-End Page

Five minutes. Write what got done — not what didn't.

What got done today

- [ ] _____
- [ ] _____
- [ ] _____
- [ ] _____
- [ ] _____

One small win:

_____

_____

Tomorrow's ONE thing

_____

5-minute tidy-up

- [ ] Clear one surface
- [ ] Put 5 things back where they live
- [ ] Lay out tomorrow's first step
- [ ] Charge the phone, fill a water bottle

Timer on. When it rings, stop — done is done.

Let go of today:

_____

_____

My Week

One thing per day is the design — not a failure. Leave the rest of the space empty on purpose.

Monday One thing: _____

Tuesday One thing: _____

Wednesday One thing: _____

Thursday One thing: _____

Friday One thing: _____

Saturday One thing: _____

Sunday One thing: _____

This week's small win: _____

Weekly Reset

Same ritual, same order, every week. Ten minutes is enough.

Step 1 — Dump: everything still circling

Step 2 — Sort it

Do next week

Small, urgent, or blocking something else.

Later

Real, but not this week.

Let go

Saying no on paper counts.

Step 3 — Next week's 3

1

2

3

Missed a week? No catching up. Just do this page and the week restarts.

Month Calendar (Undated)

No dates are printed — write the month and the day numbers yourself. Print a fresh one any time.

Month: _____

Mon	Tue	Wed	Thu	Fri	Sat	Sun

Monthly Review

Three questions only. Short answers count.

Month: _____

Keep — what worked this month?

Let go — what do I stop carrying into next month?

Try — one small experiment for next month:

Brain Dump

Get it ALL out of your head. No sorting, no judging — sorting lives on the next page.

Dump & Sort

Take the last Brain Dump and sort it into three piles. Every item lands somewhere — that's the whole job.

Do now

Small, urgent, or blocking something else.

Later

Real, but not this week.

Let go

Saying no on paper counts.

Task Ladder

One big task, five small steps. Each step small enough to start in two minutes.

The big task: _____

- ☐ Step 1 _____ my guess: _____ min
- ☐ Step 2 _____ my guess: _____ min
- ☐ Step 3 _____ my guess: _____ min
- ☐ Step 4 _____ my guess: _____ min
- ☐ Step 5 _____ my guess: _____ min

Stuck on a step? Split it again. Smaller is always allowed.

Break the Freeze

Stuck and can't start? Work this card top to bottom. One line at a time.

1 Stop. Put the pen down. Breathe out slowly, three times.

2 Name it: write the task in five words or fewer.

3 Shrink it: what is the smallest first move?

4 Set a timer for 2 minutes.

5 Do ONLY the 2 minutes. Then the timer decides: stop, or keep going.

6 Tick it. Starting counts.

Still too much today? Then the Low-Battery Day page (p.6) is your page. Go there without guilt.

Time Check

Guess first, then time it. The gap between the two columns is information, not failure.

Task	My guess (min)	Real time (min)	Difference

No judgment — this is simply how a sense of time gets trained.

Parking Lot

Ideas and urges that pop up mid-task park here. They are kept — not chased, not lost.

Two-Minute List

Tiny jobs that take under two minutes. When a spare moment appears, clear a few at once.

Cleared a whole column? Cross out the whole column. Enjoy it — that's the point of this page.

Dopamine Menu

Fill this in on a good day. On a low day, don't think — just order from the menu.

STARTERS — tiny, ready in 2 minutes

MAINS — bigger recharges

SIDES — small comforts

DESSERTS — rare treats

Overwhelm First Aid

When everything crashes in at once, don't think. Just do the next step on this page.

1 STOP — Put everything down.

2 BREATHE — Out slowly. Shoulders down.

3 DUMP — Everything onto the Brain Dump page (p.12).

4 PICK ONE — Only the smallest one.

5 TWO MINUTES — Timer on. Just two minutes of it.

6 REST — Rest is step six — not a reward for finishing.

You never have to finish this list. You only ever have to do the next step.

Focus Sprints

One sprint = 25 focused minutes. We count rounds, not wins — a round you started is a round.

Date	What I worked on	Sprints (tick each)	Total
		☐ ☐ ☐ ☐ ☐ ☐
		☐ ☐ ☐ ☐ ☐ ☐
		☐ ☐ ☐ ☐ ☐ ☐

Body Doubling Log

Working alongside someone — in person, on a call, even in silence — makes starting easier. Log who, when, and how it went.

Date	With whom	How long	What got done	Worked?

How to ask:

"I'm going to work on one thing for 25 minutes. Will you sit with me, or stay on the call? You can do your own thing — just be there."

Impulse Buy Cooling Page

Want to buy it? Park it here for 24 hours first. Most urges expire before the timer does.

I want to buy: _____ Price: _____

Found it at (date & time): _____

1. What do I hope this purchase fixes — or gives me?

_____

_____

2. Do I already own something that does this job?

_____

_____

3. If I skip it, what does this money get to finish instead?

_____

_____

I will look again at (24 hours from now): _____

After 24 hours:

- ☐ Buy it — a decision, not an urge
- ☐ Skip it — the urge passed
