WEEKLY PLANNER + RESTART KIT

A simple weekly planning system that helps you start, stay organized, and get back on track after a break.

THE WEEKLY LOOP

1. Dump it all out (p.4)
2. Shrink it to next actions (p.5)
3. Run the week from one page (p.3)
4. Review with 3 questions (p.8)

Fell off for a week - or a month? Skip straight to the Restart page (p.6). No backfilling, no catching up, no guilt pages.

WHAT'S INSIDE

p.2 Quick-Start Guide - begin in about 10 minutes p.3 Weekly Focus - your whole week on one page (print as many as you need) p.4 Brain Dump - get everything out of your head p.5 Dump to Next Action - turn fuzzy tasks into first steps p.6 Restart - the pick-up-where-you-are page, for after any break p.7 Parking Lot - tasks that matter, just not this week
p.8 Weekly Review - three questions, five minutes
p.9 Restart Card - cut it out and keep it where you will see it

TWO WAYS TO USE IT

Print it: every page is a clean black-and-white sheet, easy on home ink. Or type in it: every writing area is a fillable field in your PDF reader - fill, save, done.

Undated on purpose: no dates printed anywhere, so no page is ever wasted. Personal use only.

QUICK-START GUIDE

You do not need to read anything else before you start. Set aside about 10 minutes for your first setup.

START HERE - YOUR FIRST 10 MINUTES

1. Dump first (p.4).
Write down everything on your mind. Messy is fine - sorting comes later.

2. Shrink it (p.5).
Pick the fuzzy tasks that matter and turn each one into a first, tiny step.

3. Fill one Weekly Focus page (p.3).
Choose at most 3 priorities. Everything else waits in the Parking Lot (p.7).

4. Work from that one page.
During the week, your planner is a single sheet. New stuff goes to the dump page, not into your head.

5. Close the week (p.8).
Answer 3 questions. That is the whole review - no scores, no streaks.

IF YOU FELL OFF - READ THIS INSTEAD

Do not flip back through missed weeks, and do not try to reconstruct them. Go straight to the Restart page (p.6) and work it top to bottom. Then cut out the Restart Card (p.9) and keep it where you will see it - it carries the same steps in your pocket.

PRINTING & FILLING TIPS

- Print at 100% (actual size). The Weekly Focus page (p.3) is the one to reprint every week.
- This file is made for your paper size - Letter and A4 editions are separate downloads.
- To type instead of write: open the PDF in a free reader (Adobe Acrobat Reader, Preview, or a browser), click any line or box, and type. Save the file to keep your answers.
- Nothing in this planner needs an app, an account, or a subscription.

WEEKLY FOCUS

One page runs your whole week. Keep it short on purpose.

Week of: _____

MY #1 THING THIS WEEK

TOP 3 PRIORITIES

- [ ] _____
- [ ] _____
- [ ] _____

FIXED TIMES

THIS WEEK, IN ANY ORDER

MY NEXT ACTIONS - first small steps I will actually take

_____

_____

BRAIN DUMP

Everything in your head goes here - tasks, worries, ideas, reminders. No sorting and no judging yet. Sorting happens on page 5.

When your head feels quieter, turn to page 5 and turn the lines that matter into next actions.

DUMP > NEXT ACTION

A fuzzy task is hard to start. A tiny first step is not. Run each task through the three questions, then write its first step.

SHRINK ANY TASK WITH 3 QUESTIONS

1. What does "done" look like, in one sentence?
2. What is the very first physical step - open it, call them, write the first line?
3. Can that step be done in about 15 minutes? If not, shrink it again.

EXAMPLE

| Fuzzy task | First tiny step | Day | Done |
|---|---|---|---|
| Plan the office move | Email the team: who needs a desk on day 1? | Fri | ☐ |
| Sort out my taxes | Find last year's return; put it in one folder | Wed | ☐ |

| Fuzzy task | First tiny step | Day | Done |
|---|---|---|---|
| | | | ☐ |
| | | | ☐ |
| | | | ☐ |
| | | | ☐ |
| | | | ☐ |
| | | | ☐ |

Move the rows that matter onto your Weekly Focus page (p.3). The rest can wait in the Parking Lot (p.7) - parked is not forgotten.

RESTART - PICK UP WHERE YOU ARE

Missed days are not homework. This page is designed to take about 10 minutes. Work top to bottom and tick each step off.

STEP 1 - DON'T BACKFILL

Turn past the missed days. Blank pages are not a score, and you owe this planner nothing. You are not behind - you are starting from today.

☐ Done - I am starting from today.

STEP 2 - COLLECT WHAT'S STILL HANGING AROUND

From your head, your inbox, your last list - just collect it here. Do not judge it yet. (A full Brain Dump page is on p.4.)

STEP 3 - TRIAGE: SORT, DON'T SOLVE

| STILL MATTERS | LET IT GO (FOR NOW) |
| --- | --- |
| | |
| | |
| | |
| | |

Crossing something out on the right is a decision, not a failure.

STEP 4 - TODAY'S ONE THING

If today only gets one thing, it is this:

STEP 5 - SET YOUR NEXT CHECK-IN TRIGGER

I will open this planner again:

e.g. "Sunday, after breakfast, at the kitchen table - coffee first." A when-and-where cue works better than a promise to "do better".

☐ I will cut out the Restart Card (p.9) and keep it where I will see it.

PARKING LOT

Things that matter - just not this week. Parking a task here is a decision, so your Weekly Focus page stays short.

| Bring back? | Parked task / idea | Look again |
|---|---|---|
| ☐ | | |
| ☐ | | |
| ☐ | | |
| ☐ | | |
| ☐ | | |
| ☐ | | |
| ☐ | | |
| ☐ | | |
| ☐ | | |
| ☐ | | |
| ☐ | | |
| ☐ | | |

Look at this page when you fill in a new Weekly Focus page. Anything that has gone dead can be crossed out for good - that clears mental space too.

WEEKLY REVIEW

Three questions, about five minutes. No scores and no streaks - one honest answer per question is a complete review.

1. WHAT WORKED?

2. WHAT GOT IN THE WAY?

3. WHAT WILL I CHANGE NEXT WEEK?

MY ONE SMALL CHANGE FOR NEXT WEEK

RESTART CARD

Print this page and cut along the dashed line. Keep one card in your planner and one where you will trip over it - a fridge door works well.

RESTART CARD

Fell off your planner? Start here - five moves, about 10 minutes.

1. Don't backfill. Missed days are done - start from today.
2. Dump everything that is still hanging around (planner p.4).
3. Sort it: still matters / let it go. Crossing out is a decision.
4. Pick ONE thing for today. Write it big (planner p.6).
5. Decide when you will open your planner next - and where.
