Start Here — Home Inventory for Insurance & Personal Records

Everything in this kit, and how to open it. Start with the 10 items that matter most — the rest can wait.

WHAT YOU HAVE

1. The home inventory spreadsheet — Google Sheets master. Open the copy link below; the copy lands in your own Drive, private by default, with 5 tabs.

2. Printable companion (A4 + US Letter), 3 pages each — a room walkthrough sheet to tick off as you go, and the handover summary in print form.

3. A filled example household — 25 fictional items in a separate file, marked fictional, so you can see how the totals, the attention line and the handover page look before you type your own.

4. This page — how to open the spreadsheet.

5. LICENSE — personal use only.

SELLER'S READY-MADE COPY LINK

Open it and click “Make a copy” — it saves an editable copy to your own Google Drive.

Opened the sheet from Google Drive instead of the link? Go to File > Make a copy — same result.

WHAT'S INSIDE THE SPREADSHEET (5 TABS)

- Start Here — this guide.
- Inventory — the register. 13 columns, room by room, 200 rows. You only type in the light-blue cells.
- Summary — totals by room, a grand total, and the high-value list.
- Handover — a one-page summary by room, total value and photo list. Print it or download it as PDF or Excel (File > Download) to hand over.
- Lists — the 12 rooms and 10 categories behind the dropdowns.

THE 13 COLUMNS

Room (dropdown) · Item · Qty · Category (dropdown) · Purchase date · Purchase price · Estimated value · Serial number · Location (in room) · Belongs to · Notes · Photo filename / link · Attention (★, automatic)

START WITH THE 10 ITEMS THAT MATTER MOST

Do not list every spoon. Record the things you would need to describe if they were lost, damaged or handed over — valuable items, electronics, appliances, jewelry, tools. A short list you actually finish beats a full-house list you abandon. Start with the 10 items that matter most; the totals and the handover page work from whatever you entered.

PHOTOS — FILENAME OR LINK (THE DEFAULT WORKFLOW)

Walk room by room and take photos into one folder in your Drive. In the Photo filename / link column, write the photo filename or paste the link. The Handover page carries the photo list with it.

You can also insert images directly into cells, but that is not the default: phone photos in HEIC format are not supported, rows need manual height, and hundreds of embedded photos slow the sheet down.

THE ATTENTION LINE (YOUR OWN LINE)

On the Summary tab, type your own attention line — a single-item value, for example 500. Items at or above that value are flagged ★ on the Inventory tab and listed on the Summary tab. Leave the attention line blank and nothing is flagged. This line is yours; it is not an insurer limit and promises nothing about insurance.

HANDOVER AND BACKUP

Open the Handover tab for a one-page summary by room, total value and photo list. Print it or download it as PDF or Excel (File > Download) to hand over. Keep the file in your own Google Drive and export a backup yourself — it does not depend on a seller subscription service.

No seller account is needed to use this sheet. Note: using a Google Sheets online copy usually needs a Google account.

INSURANCE WORDING — PLEASE READ

本产品为个人财产记录整理工具，不构成保险建议；不承诺任何保险公司接受、赔付；估值栏为你自己记录的估计值，不具专业鉴定效力。是否承保、赔多少，由你和你的保险公司决定。

> This product is a personal property record organizer. It is not insurance advice; it does not promise that any insurer will accept or pay a claim; estimated values are your own figures and have no professional appraisal effect. Whether something is covered, and for how much, is between you and your insurer.

In plain terms: this product organises your own records for insurance-related use. It is not insurance advice, it does not value anything for you, and it does not calculate a claim or suggest how much cover you need.

THREE QUESTIONS EVERYONE ASKS

Q: Why can't I type in this sheet? (It says “view-only”.)

A: Because this is the shared master — it stays view-only so it can never be changed by accident. Your own copy (the steps above) is fully editable. If a cell still will not type, you are still in the master: your copy is the one saved in your own Google Drive.

Q: What if I only want to record a few expensive things?

A: That is exactly what this sheet is for. Record only what is worth recording — the totals and handover page work from whatever you entered.

Q: Can I use it on my phone?

A: Yes. Open your copy in the free Google Sheets app and type in the same light-blue cells — the formulas work the same on a phone, a tablet and a computer.
